Off-Site Safety Management Training

What is it?

This course is designed to provide the certificate holder with an understanding of the safety systems and statutory requirements needed when planning to take young people off-site. The course covers everything from a day trip to the Tate to a month long expedition to Ecuador. The course is essential for any teacher or youth worker taking young people on any off-site visit.

Utilising both practical and didactic delivery styles this course provides a unique and essential insight into the running of off-site trips for schools, organisations and individuals who work with young people.

How long does it last?

Two days. Typically training runs from 9am to 5.30pm each day.

What does it cover?

- Essential Research: Knowledge of the Group, Safety Guidelines, Legal Responsibilities, Location Analysis, Risk Management.
- Operating Procedures: Essential Administration, Group Management, Incident Management Planning.
- Post Event Evaluation: Techniques and Application.
